

Chipmakers Signal Easing of Supply Glut but Demand Recovery Still Slow

Major markets for chips like smartphones, PCs have shrunk on low customer spends

Reuters
Seoul: From Intel to Samsung, global chipmakers are celebrating the beginning of the end of a semiconductor supply glut, but the outlook for demand from customers outside the artificial intelligence (AI) industry remains gloomy. All the major markets for chips — smartphones, PCs and data centres — have shrunk this year, as both corporate customers and consumers scale back spending amid a weak global economy. High inflation and rising interest rates. This has created an unprecedented oversupply of commodity chips, causing a record combined 15.2 trillion worth ($2 billion) first-half operating loss for the world's two largest memory chipmakers, Samsung and SK Hynix.

quarter, according to research firm Counterpoint. "Demand is recovering very gradually," Wootyun Kim, chief financial officer at SK Hynix, said on an earnings call this week. "The recent improvement in PC shipments has been mainly led by promotions and low-end models, meaning it provided limited impact on chip demand recovery," he said.

BOJ Loosens Grip on Rates

Reuters
Tokyo: The Bank of Japan (BOJ) sharply shifted away from decades of massive monetary stimulus on Friday as inflation and economic growth picked up, allowing the central bank to raise its policy rate to more than 4%.

In what some analysts said could be a watershed shift for global financial markets, the BOJ made it possible for the first time in decades to move more flexibly and loosened its ties to a long-term interest rate cap after a two-day policy meeting.

US Govt Faces Lawsuit Over Immigration App

MIGRANTS must use CBP One to schedule an appointment at a port of entry into US

AFP
Immigration advocates sued the US government on Thursday for arguing that the Department of Homeland Security requests on the use of an app violates migrants' human rights, according to the legal action filed in federal court. The suit, the latest legal challenge to the Biden administration's immigration agenda, takes aim at the CBP (Customs and Border Protection) app which says migrants must use it to schedule appointments to enter the US.

CBP One essentially creates an electronic waitlist that restricts access to the US asylum process to a limited number of "privileged" migrants, critics say.

It was filed in federal court in California on Thursday by the immigration organisations Ali Forami, Lado and the Human Rights Foundation, along with 10 migrants who claim the application blocked their attempt to seek asylum.

US President Joe Biden's administration launched CBP One in January as it wound down immigration rules enacted during the Trump administration.

Migrants must use CBP One to schedule an appointment at a port of entry into the United States. But accessing the app requires a smartphone, internet access and electricity — all hard to access for migrants on long and dangerous journeys leaving their home countries.

Between January and June an estimated 70,000 people scheduled appointments through the app, authorities have said. However, migrants and activists have both criticized the app.

Along with the difficulties in accessing it, the organisations behind the lawsuit said in a statement that the app's discriminatory facial recognition technology has targeted many Black and darker-skinned immigrants from obtaining an appointment.

Meakins Named Next Unilever Chief

Unilever named a new chairman with the person in the role at British and French companies, in hopes of mending relations with frustrated investors after a series of misses in recent years.

Ian Meakins, who is chairman of catering company Compass Group and French electrical supply maker Roebel, will succeed Chairman Mats Anderson, the owner of Ben & Jerry's ice cream said Friday. He'll join a largely new team. Heins Schumacher, former boss of dairy cooperative Royal FrieslandCampina, becomes CEO this month, replacing Alan Jones. Chief Financial Officer Gabe Pittbligh plans to retire next year and other management changes are expected. Bloomberg

July to be Hottest Month as UN Warns of 'Global Boiling'

AFP
Paris: July is on track to be the hottest month in recorded history, scientists confirmed Thursday, as UN chief Antonio Guterres warned Earth has entered an "era of global boiling".

Searing heat intensified by global warming has affected tens of millions of people in parts of Europe, Asia and North America this month, combining with fierce wildfires that have scorched across Canada and scorched southern Europe.

"Climate change is here. It is terrifying. And it is just the beginning," said Guterres, urging the world to take action to put planet-heating emissions "to rest".

The era of global boiling has ended; the era of global boiling has arrived. "With the first three weeks of July already registering global average temperatures above any comparable period, the World Meteorological Organization and Europe's Copernicus Climate
